

GAMES WITH OLDER KIDS:

Spot a Celebrity Look-alike

Search the restaurant, without staring, for people who look like a famous celebrity or someone who everyone at the table would know.

Dare Roulette

Have everyone agree on a dare that the winner has to do. Sample dares: Say a certain phrase to the waiter or talk to unknown people at another table for a minute. Determine a number, such as 24. Have everyone at the table hold any number of fingers out, such as 1 finger or 3 fingers. Start counting until you reach the 24th finger. The person whose finger it is goes out. Start the next round. Keep counting until only one person remains: the winner. That is the person who does the dare.

Who Am I?

One person picks someone to pretend to be. Everyone else asks yes or no questions to figure out who that person is. The winner is the one who guesses correctly. And that person gets to decide who they want to pretend to be while everyone else guesses.

Quick Counter

Have everyone put their hands behind their backs and choose a certain amount of fingers to put up. Have everyone put their hands on the table at the same time. The person that adds the total amount of fingers first is the winner. (This game works with little ones too.)

GAMES WITH YOUNGER KIDS:

I Spy

Find an object in the restaurant and tell the other players the color. For example: "I spy something green." Everyone takes a turn guessing. The winner is the first one to call out the object.

Pick One

Take a small piece of paper, crumple it up and put it in one of your fists. Have the kids guess which hand the paper is in. Then let them have a turn and you guess which of their hands the paper is in. (This is one for little kids.)

Draw This

Draw the shape to the left. Ask your kids to draw the picture without lifting their pens off of the paper or going over the same line twice. Bring 3x5 cards and pens/crayons for this game.

Telephone Pictionary

The first person draws a picture of something on a card without anyone seeing it. Then Player 1 shows the person next to them for a second. Player 2 then draws what they think the image is supposed to be. When they are done, they show their drawing to Player 3 for a second and so on. When the last person is done drawing, the first person reveals the object it was supposed to be. Bring 3x5 cards and pens/crayons for this game.
